State Budget Hearing Hits Hopeful Note

What may be an optimistic note for the college's proposed building plan was sounded yesterday in a state assembly sub-committee meeting.

The sub-committee disregarded suggested cuts in the proposed budget for the University of California and even added an extra $115,000, according to a report by the United Press. Legislative Auditor A. Alan Post, who recommended deferring construction of the San Jose State college Library addition Monday, also had advocated cutting the U.C. budget by $500,000.

Commenting on the sub-committee's action regarding U.C., President John T. Wahlquist said yesterday, "If they can do this for the University of California, I see no reason why they can't do the same for San Jose State."

Post, as chief financial adviser to the legislature, recommended slashing a total of $39,200,000 from Gov. Warren's proposed budget of $1,326,851,905, for the fiscal year 1953. Included in the proposed slash was a recommendation that the college's budget be cut by $1,456,000. Of this amount, $1,353,000 would be cut from the building plan. The $1,353,000 Library addition would constitute the largest single item in the reduction.

Post did not specify where the other $103,000 cut would be made, but it is more than likely it would come from the equipment allotment for the Library.

According to a letter received by President Wahlquist from Assemblyman Bruce Allen, Post also had some comments on the increase in the college's operating budget. The total, Post said, would be $468,919, of which $95,972 would be due to the junior college split. An earlier operating budget analysis by E. S. Thompson, college business manager, indicated the increase due to the split would be $85,000. Thompson stressed, however, that this figure was an approximation.

Aid Is Needed In Blood Drive

Stan Croonquist, blood drive contact co-chairman, yesterday issued an urgent call for volunteers to help distribute pledge cards to living groups this week.

"Pledge card sign-ups for the first two days of the week total approximately 250, or about 11 per cent of the goal of 2000 pints," Croonquist disclosed. The tempo must be stepped up if the goal is to be reached, he added.

Students interested in working with the contact committee should meet this afternoon in Room 13 at 3:30 o'clock.

"We must contact more than 100 living groups this evening and tomorrow evening," Croonquist disclosed. "The job calls for about 60 students to help. As it stands now, we have 20 active participants, and about 20 more who have volunteered but have failed to show up at our meetings," he said.

Croonquist and a few members of his committee contacted fraternities and sororities at their meetings Monday evening.

Draft Director Wants Service Before School

Registration of men at the college will be decreased if a proposed plan by Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey to tighten deferment of college students and fathers is put into effect, according to Dr. Stanley C. Benz, dean of men.

Hershey told newsmen yesterday that "eventually a man will be an unusual case if he gets schooling before military training," according to a United Press bulletin.

He said he does not plan to seek the changes from Congress, but will depend on an executive order.

The proposed order would require that college freshmen stand in the upper quarter instead of the upper half of their class and score 75 instead of 70 on the Selective Service college qualification test.

"The proposed raising of requirements for freshmen would obviously affect 25 per cent of the men in the class," Dean Benz said. "The stiffening of the grading on the Selective Service college qualification test also would substantially affect enrollment here."

As the first step toward drafting fathers, Hershey said he will seek an executive order ending deferments for men who become fathers while in college under deferment and then request a second deferment after graduation on grounds of dependency.

"We've got to be careful not to substitute schooling and scientific training for military service," Hershey said, noting that a "happy medium" must be found between "scientific and professional groups who think we're losing the race in developing technically-trained men and those who wonder why everyone doesn't go into the army."

Benz said it has been his understanding that the army would rather have men with a college education.

"From the trend that has been developing in past months, however, it appears that there will be every effort to draft college men," Benz said.

Several 19-year-old students have been drafted already, he said.

Head Librarian Joyce Backus said yesterday she could easily prove to A. Alan Post, legislative auditor, that the proposed Library addition is a necessity.

Post, chief financial adviser to the state legislature, had recommended Monday that approval of the $1,353,000 building be postponed "until it is shown that this added space is needed." Construction was scheduled to begin next year.

Miss Backus commented, "In 1941, the present Library was built to accommodate 4000 students. The college now has an enrollment of 6376, according to the registrar's office. The present building cannot keep up with the expanding student body."

The bookstacks have a capacity of 150,000 books, she added. One hundred and forty thousand volumes now are on the shelves and the Library receives an average of 10,000 new ones each year. "We will have no place for them," Miss Backus observed, "unless we build shelves in the walls."

"Mr. Post should shove books for one hour," observed Miss Barbara Woods, circulation librarian. "We have so little space that 10 books on a shelf must be moved to make room for one."

The same situation exists in the reference and science reference rooms, added Miss Helen Olsen, reference librarian. "We had to rearrange half the reference room," she said, "to make room for 20 volumes we

Elder Fund Drive Will Help Family

The proposed on-campus Elder fund drive has been approved and will take place Friday morning.

This was announced last night by Don Binder, president of Alpha Phi Omega, national college men's service fraternity, which will conduct the drive. "We have obtained the necessary approval of the administration," Binder said, "and will announce the details of the drive Thursday in the Spartan Daily."

IA Meeting Today

Industrial arts majors and minors who plan to do spring quarter student teaching will meet today at 4 p.m. in the IA lecture room.

According to Dr. James Stevenson, IA instructor, this meeting is very important. If the students do not sign up for teacher training today, it may be difficult to find them job openings in spring quarter.

IFC May Drop 'Mural Sports'

The Inter-Fraternity council might be forced to drop out of the intramural sports program if games are to be slated for Monday evenings, according to Lloyd Neutz, IFC representative.

Neutz, representing the fraternities at an AMS meeting yesterday, told the group that Monday night games presented too great a conflict with the weekly fraternity meetings.

"The AMS won't run the intramural program to suit any one group or organization," declared Tom Berrey, AMS president. "The IFC may withdraw its participation, as far as I am concerned. However, the loss would hurt the program," he added.

Berrey went on to say he believed AMS was doing a good job in handling the athletic program. "Although trouble has been encountered at times, we are doing the best we can with the available facilities," he stated.

A spot-check of individual fraternities made last night indicated there may be some fraternity opposition to withdrawing from the league, if the IFC does decide to discontinue participation.

Ed Majors Asked To Attend Meeting

Education majors working toward teacher-training approval should meet tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. in Room 116. This is the last such meeting of the quarter.

The session is for those who have not attended a previous meeting, according to Mrs. Edith G. Germane, a member of the committee for teacher training.

These meetings are for the purpose of discussing the procedure for applying for teacher-training through the committee, Mrs. Germane disclosed.

The need for the project was recognized Monday night when representatives of the organization interviewed Mr. and Mrs. William Elder at their apartment in Spartan City. During the meeting, the Elders explained the details of the expenses incurred because of the death of their youngest son.

Kenneth Elder, 3, died last Thursday of injuries suffered when he was struck by an auto the previous day. The child was attempting to cross Seventh street after his older brother, Howard, 6, at the time of the accident.

Doctors at San Jose hospital operated on the child for three hours in an attempt to save his life, Elder said. Specialists were called in to aid in the effort, and special nurses were in attendance at all times, he continued.

Elder explained that he is carrying 18 units of studies and, because of this, has been unable to work at a steady job.

Elder is a veteran of three years' service as a medic in the Army during World War II and is a business administration major at the college.

Binder said members of Alpha Phi Omega felt the cause was "very worthwhile" and he expressed his hope for the success of the project. "If we can get an average donation of ten cents from each student," he said, "we should have enough to pay the Elders' medical and funeral expenses."

Cast Readies Play Opening

The third dress rehearsal of "Eurydice" will be held tonight in the Little Theater, Dr. James H. Clancy, director, announced.

The cast will smooth out performances in the French-flavored tale of two young and unfortunate lovers.

The title role of "Eurydice" will be played by Delores Hieb, a new comer to the college stage. Richard Rizzo, a favorite with Little Theater patrons, will share top billing as Orpheus.

Modern costumes for the contemporary version of the ancient Greek classic will be designed by Miss Bernice Prisk, assistant professor of drama.

This is the second American presentation of Jean Anouilh's play. It previously had been presented in New York.

Students Try For Yell Jobs

Preliminary tryouts for yell leaders will be held this evening at 7 o'clock in Room 39, according to Chuck Wing, Rally committee head.

Persons chosen to fill the five vacant yell leader positions will hold office until Jan. 1, 1954, Wing said.

Formerly, yell leaders held office during the school year. Last week the committee voted to make the term of office last for the calendar year.

To be eligible for the positions, applicants must be regularly enrolled students on clear standing with the college.

Wing stated that the new yell leaders are expected to be available for the remaining basketball games and for special events which may come up during the spring quarter.

Movies, Students, and Prices

Mr. Edison's kinescope has developed into quite a social phenomenon. Over the years motion pictures have become an integral part of the American way of life. In fact, some persons who view the flickers with a jaundiced eye maintain that movies determine the American way of life.

Regardless of jaundiced eyes and television, movies are here to stay, particularly so far as college students are concerned. Movies make up a large part of the student's social life, providing entertainment, if not culture. But in the past few years, admission prices have always outstripped the student's meager income.

While we have no figures to prove the statement, we would guess average attendance of movies by students has dropped off considerably within the past couple of years. They are simply too expensive for the limited student budget.

Today, a Thrust and Parry gives "three cheers" to a down-town theater for instituting student rates. One theater recently has started a student rate, dropping the price from $1 to 65 cents. But it is not the one referred to in Thrust and Parry. That was all a mistake.

But there have been many instances in history when a mistake has had good results. We think this is such an instance. Both students and theater managers would, we think, find reduced student rates profitable.

Movies may be better than ever. Let's hope prices get better, too.

Thrust and Parry

Rah! For UA

Dear Thrust and Parry:

Three cheers for the United Artists Theater! For the past several years we students have wanted and asked for student rates at the downtown theaters. This past weekend the UA initiated a student rate policy, and we want to offer the UA management our congratulations and thanks for their consideration.

Most students go to a theater once a week at the current prices, but if the UA continues its student rate policy we feel certain that hundreds of other students will join us in attending it at least two or three times a week.

Let's talk it up and show the UA that they will not lose any money by giving up this new rate. Again we say three cheers for the UA.

Signed by 19 ASE card holders.

Spartan City Traffic Death Brings Action

The accidental death of 3-year-old Kenneth Elder has brought attention to dangerous traffic conditions near Spartan City.

A spokesman for the college community reportedly has asked George Singewald, housing manager, to attend a proposed mass meeting at the "City" sometime next week.

The meeting will be held to give school officials and Spartan City residents the opportunity to discuss means of assuring the safety of their children.

Mr. Singewald readily agreed to attend and promised "to do all I can" to solve the problem of installing fences or other safety devices.

Continue Good Will in Sports, Says Winter

The Eisenhower administration will miss a good bet in foreign relations if the State department does not follow up the great strides in international goodwill gained by the United States Olympic team last year at Helsinki.

At least this is the studied conclusion of Bud Winter, San Jose State track coach, who has been in communication with many track officials in various countries of the Far East. Winter says he has found the door wide open for opportunities to promote international good will through visiting performers and coaching clinics in athletics, particularly in track and field.

Thirst for Information

"To my knowledge we have never sent U.S. athletic teams or coaches to the Netherlands, East Indies, or India," Winter said. "Yet these countries thirst for any information we can send them so that their teams might make a better showing in future Olympic Games."

The Spartan track coach said that in letters and conversations with representatives of these areas he has found that they have intense national pride and interest in the accomplishments of their athletic teams. Some, of necessity, are government-subsidized, but most are dependent on the patronage of various maharajas or other public spirited individuals. Still their major problem is one of techniques.

Reporting a recent exchange with N. C. Dhawan, secretary of the Amateur Athletic Federation of India, Winter said Dhawan "implores us" to send American coaches to their clinics, and performers to their national meets, to help them with their athletic problems.

International Goodwill

"What an opportunity for our State department!" Winter exclaimed.

The veteran track mentor pointed out that even the Russians were friendly under Olympic conditions and perhaps learned more of our way of life than from our most ambitious propaganda programs. Russian officials turned down a proposal for home-and-home athletic contests every year, but the Far East countries would not, according to Winter.

"Our teams and coaches would be welcomed with open arms in the Far East," he said. "For minimum expense, AAU-sponsored teams or a group of athletic coaches conducting clinics could accomplish maximum good in international relations. Let us not on Monday forget the lessons we learned on Saturday."

Secretary Is Leaving P.E. Post At SJS

By BILL FARR

Miss Jacqueline Lee, the athletic department secretary known to coaches, athletes, and gym class members as "Jackie," is leaving the college today to begin a two-year enlistment in the ranks of the Red Cross.

JACKIE LEE . . . after two and a half years of service as secretary of the P.E. department, she will leave for service with the Red Cross.

Miss Lee has served for four and a half years as a physical education department typist and all-around handygirl. She attended SJS for two years previous to that and spent four years at San Jose high school.

After a week's preparatory training in San Francisco, Jackie will go to Japan. She expects to spend most of her two years in that country and other parts of the Far Eastern theater of operations.

"It's hard to single out what I'll miss most when I leave. Everybody here has been swell and I'll miss them all," Miss Lee said.

Miss Doris Barbarez, head secretary in the athletic office and Jackie's "boss," says, "It's hard to see Jackie leave after we have come to know her so well, and she has fitted herself into our program so beautifully. At the same time we welcome Corienne to the office and we know she'll do a fine job."

From the Spartan Daily sports staff, past and present, to the cute and always helpful Miss Lee, we extend a "thanks" for her wonderful cooperation and good luck in her new career.

Sparta's cagers hope to make it two in a row over the San Francisco State Gators tonight in the gymnasium on the Gators' new Lake Merced campus.

Tip-off is scheduled for 8:15 p.m. In a preliminary game the Spartababes will play the San Francisco frosh.

Coach Walt McPherson's Spartans whipped the Gators in an early season contest in the Men's gym, 63-56. But since then coach Dan Farmer's boys have lost but one game to Fresno for the only blemish over a ten game span.

Farmer is proud of the Gators' record of 11 wins and two losses and said, "We have improved considerably since losing to San Jose State, but the Spartans are also much better. They split with Utah State last week and that's quite a chore."

Spoiler Role

The SJS game is always a big one for the Gators, and this one

Broadcast Time

Tonight's basketball game between the Spartans and SFS will be broadcast locally over radio station KSJO starting at 8:15 p.m. The freshmen game at 6:30 p.m. will not be broadcast.

will have added interest because of San Francisco's desire to avenge the previous loss.

McPherson is anxious to hit the winning trail for keeps. He was jubilant over the 28 points scored by veteran guard Lee Jensen in Friday's loss to Utah State. Jensen's spurge was the third highest individual point-making effort in Spartan history. Most encouraging in Saturday's victory was the scoring punch exhibited by two sophomores, Newt Hodgson and Bud Hjelm, who had their best night of the season.

Probable starters for the local forces tonight will include forwards Dick Brady and Don Edwards; center Fred Niemann; and guards Carroll Williams and Lee Jensen.

Miller High Man

Leading the SFS attack will more than likely be forward Charles Miller, a transfer from St. Mary's. Miller is the leading scorer for the Gators. He has amassed 154 points in 13 games and is closely followed by Vic Gipson, a forward returning from last year's quint. Gipson has 150 points, and also leads the Gators' fast-breaking offense.

Al Desin, the 6 ft.-4-in. center from Berkeley, has been a regular for two years, and is expected to get the starting call tonight.

The San Franciscans have a quartet of good guards, any combination of which may start. Gene Busby, Jim Green, John Burton and Glydon Mayfield, all veterans, are fighting for a starting berth.

Busby is the highest scorer of the four. He has 111 points for the year. Green is next in line with 70. And Burton and Mayfield both have more than 50. Burton is the playmaker of the team and will undoubtedly see plenty of action.

Racketeers Meet

All varsity tennis players are asked to report to a meeting today at 3:30 p.m. in the south end of the Men's gym bleachers. Coach Hugh Mumby plans to outline plans for the 1953 season.

Four Minute Mile Possible, Say Experts

Will anyone run a four minute mile this year? Will anyone break Gunder Haag's record of 4:01.4 seconds.

These are some of the questions being asked by enthusiastic track filberts as the coming season draws near.

Bud Winter, SJS track coach, believes, a four minute mile will be run this year. But whoever does it will need strong competition.

When asked what he thought Australia John Landy's chances are, he replied, "I think Landy has the potential to run a four minute mile, but unless he gets some competition, he won't do it. I've never heard of any man breaking a world's record in track without the benefit of competition."

Landy is not the only man selected by track experts as being a four minute mile possibility. Others include Werner Lueg, 20-year-old German student, Gaston Reiff, 30-year-old Belgian veteran, Josy Barthel of Luxembourg, and Bob McMillen from Occidental college.

But of all these men Landy is rated as the most likely to do the trick, mainly because of his 4:02.1 mile last December and a 4:02.4 repeat performance under adverse conditions a few weeks later.

Landy feels he can run 4:08 any time he steps on a track. He loves to run and works hard at it.

McMillen, say the experts, rates as the longest shot of the five. Bob has the ability, but is not certain he'll compete again.

Green Boxers Face Gators In Benefit Go

Coach Chuck Adkins' boxing squad will undergo its first test of the 1953 season tomorrow night when they meet San Francisco State in an annual Youth benefit program.

The meet, to be held at 8 o'clock in Redwood City's Sequoia high school gymnasium, will try the strength of a fairly green Raider team. Not since the war has a Washington Square ring aggregation been as inexperienced as is this one.

Lettermen returning to the fold are Al Accurso, 119 lb., Ed Heinrich, 165, Darrell Dukes, 178, and Paul Reuter, heavyweight. Of these glovemen, Dukes and Reuter have the most experience.

Three Spartans will be returning to their high school alma mater. Accurso, Dick Bender, and Jack Montgomery attended Sequoia high school, as have many SJS ringmen.

Although green, the Raiders have shown good potential and with conditioning should round into a top Pacific coast team. Mike Guerrero, who will box at either the 119 lb. or 125 lb. division at Redwood City, has shown plenty of ability. A comparative newcomer, he beat Accurso in the All-College meet recently.

Former Spartans with the two-beat aggregation are Jack Hammond, piano; Dan Rudger, banjo; Dick Morris, trumpet; and George Mannus, clarinet. Mannus was Sparta's pole vaulting representative at the 1952 Olympics. He now is stationed at Parks Air Force base.

Fred Trent, trombone, comes from Santa Clara university. Don

Harmond, tuba, also is from the cross-town school. He was the seventh man added to the group, making it a "baker's half-dozen," Berthiaume said.

Although the band specializes in the old Dixieland two-beat jazz, Berthiaume assured all that it could settle down to mellow music for ballroom dancing.

Sara Cozad and Carol Lage, decoration co-chairmen, reported that barn-styled decorations will range from buckets and saw-horses to a scarecrow and possibly a live cow.

Contest Rules Are Revealed

Students now may submit entries in the Phelan literary contest, according to the English office.

Works will be accepted in sonnet, lyric, and free verse poetry, as well as essays, short stories, and plays of one or three acts. Radio plays are included in the latter category.

All selections must be submitted to the English department office (H26) before 5 p.m. on Friday, Apr. 3 of next quarter.

To qualify for Phelan competition, students may not be more than 30 years of age. Registration as a regular student at the college for at least one quarter of the school year also is required.

Approximately $350 in prize awards may be available this year from the Phelan fund, which was willed to the college by the late Sen. James C. Phelan as an encouragement to students interested in literary advancement.

Group Plans Play Reading

A play-reading presentation now is being rehearsed by four special speech students, according to Dr. Dorothy Kaucher, associate speech department head.

The production is of the type made famous by Charles Laughton, Agnes Morehead, Sir Cedric Hardwick and Charles Boyer in George Bernard Shaw's play, "Don Juan in Hell," Dr. Kaucher explained.

The four students who will take part in the play are Patricia Breeze, Cleo Sebula, James Cockrell and Jack Byers. They will stage the play sometime late in February.

A relatively unknown play, "The Life of Man," was chosen by the students for the unconventional production. "The Life of Man" is a "dramatized philosophy" on the "Death of a Salesman" theme, said Dr. Kaucher.

The play was written by Leonid Andreev, a Russian dramatist who lived in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries.

Eleven Attend Conference on Foreign Policy

Delegates to the Western College conference on American foreign policy will meet tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in Room 20, according to Dr. George Bruntz, adviser to the International Relations club.

The conference, which will be held at Stanford university Feb. 12-14, will be made up of delegates from 70 college and university groups.

Representing this college will be Anton Howard, Robert Blanc, Sally McComb, Art Butler, Medric Godbout, Tom Luce, Myrne Watrous, Lon Polk, Barbara Roach, Robert Lindsey and Derrell Repp.

Tomorrow's meeting will be for organizational purposes, Dr. Bruntz said.

Chaplin Movies

A Charles Chaplin series of four short films will be shown tomorrow in S112 at 4 p.m. and 8 p.m., under the sponsorship of the San Jose Players.

The films are "The Rink," "The Vagabond," "The Adventurer," and "Easy Street." Admission is 30 cents.

Former Spartans Win Their Wings As Air Hostesses

Two former Spartan coeds recently won their wings.

Carol Joy Pace and Corinne Ann Kenneally, both SJS graduates, recently received their wings as Trans-World airlines hostesses, according to airline sources.

The graduates attended a TWA training school in Kansas City, Mo.

Miss Pace will be stationed in Detroit, Mich., where she will serve with 600 other women on TWA routes from San Francisco to Bombay, India.

Miss Kenneally received a bachelor's degree in merchandising from the college.

Course Added In Aeronautics

Aeronautical engineering students are studying aviation from a different viewpoint this quarter.

In addition to learning the mechanics of the industry, they now are being taught the business and managerial side.

The course was originated by Thomas E. Leonard, associate professor of engineering, who believed that students desiring to enter the business side of aviation were neglected. For the past five or six years, he said, all the emphasis was placed on engineering proficiency in the lab. "We never bothered with the business side."

The classes make trips to the local and municipal airports. Future plans call for classes to investigate operations of United Airlines and the Civil Aeronautics safety administration.

Writing Specialist Gets New Duties

James Warnock, instructor in English, will teach creative writing and short story courses Spring quarter and during the Summer session.

Dr. Raymond W. Barry, English department head, said that Mr. Warnock has an M.A. degree in creative writing from Stanford university and also has sold some of his fiction to magazines.

Mr. Warnock presently teaches English composition classes at the college. He will take on additional duties next month when Dr. Harold P. Miller, professor of English, begins his sabbatical leave.

Faculty Adds New Teachers For Summer

Four teachers have been added to the college faculty for the 1953 summer sessions, according to Dr. Raymond Mosher, dean of summer sessions.

Dr. Clyde M. Hill, chairman of the Department of Education of Yale university, will teach courses in secondary education in the four week session, Dr. Mosher said.

Dr. Hill was chairman of a recent survey of the city schools of Pasadena.

Dr. F. A. Gilfillan, dean of science of Oregon State college at Corvallis, is scheduled to teach two lower division chemistry classes, "Chemistry and Everyday Life" and "History of Science."

Miss Jennie Campbell, director of elementary education for the Utah State Department of Education, will teach courses in elementary education in the four week session.

Miss Beverly Strongman, primary supervisor of the Los Angeles city schools, will conduct a Kindergarten-Primary workshop.
